Family Studies 3320A/B - Family Practices in a Global World

This course examines the family practices found in the West today. Due to migration patterns, and new social dynamics in Western society, the family constellation is increasingly complex and reflective of cultural background and beliefs. Consideration will be given to these family practices, including how the media portrays them.

Prerequisite(s): ~~Family Studies 2200E, 2225~~ 1.0 Family Studies course (or equivalent) at the 2000-level or permission of instructor.

3 lecture hours, 0.5 course.

(Brescia)

Family Studies 3325A/B - Diversity and the Canadian Family

This course examines contemporary diversity as it impacts individuals and families. Its psychosocial approach enables students to think through their own perspectives on race, ethnicity, religion, sexual identity, and more. This course focuses upon understanding families' strengths and challenges in contemporary society, and efforts to support families and children.

Prerequisite(s): ~~Family Studies 2200E, 2225~~ 1.0 Family Studies course (or equivalent) at the 2000-level or permission of instructor.

3 lecture hours, 0.5 course.
